NEWS ITEMS FROM JARROW

Mr. William (Bille) Matthews of Jarrow was united in marriage to Miss Jessie Cotton of Killam, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cotton. The marriage took place on October 23rd, at Strome's Rev. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Matthews much happiness.

United Church Notes

Weather conditions notwithstanding the anniversary meetings over last weekend were well attended and much enjoyed. At the Sunday evening service the congregation was larger than usual, and the note of thankfulness for the past and courage in facing the future was evident throughout; culminating in the closing hymn, "Forward by our Watchword."

The supper on Monday evening provided the usual feast of good things and of goodly fellowship, followed by the evening meeting which presented the combined features of a delightful entertainment and an inspiring message. Every item on the program, which was as follows, received well merited applause: Girls' Choir; Mrs. N. Parkes, reading; Mrs. Pryce Jones, solo; Mrs. Caprani Winkel, piano/forte solo; Rev. R. W. Griffith, solo and a reading. The address on "My Creed" by Rev. T. E. Armstrong was well suited to the occasion, and was listened to with close attention. In a few closing words the pastor expressed most hearty thanks to all who had helped in any way whatsoever to prosper the good work through the anniversary celebrations, and quoted the following lines, following out the thought of Mr. Armstrong's address: "If you believe and I believe, and altogether strive; we shall His promises help receive, and see God's work revive."

Plans are being made for the Rev. J. C. Matheson, a returned missionary from North Honan, China, to visit the Wainwright Presbytery some time during the latter part of November; and it is hoped that he will be able to come to Irma for a Sunday evening service. Advance information written by one of our ministers in Saskatchewan is as follows: "Rev. J. C. Matheson addressed three gatherings on Sunday, years, Moosomin, Rocanville and Orangeville. He was splendid. I think he has the best missionary address that I have heard in a long time. He has a strong and pleasing personality and plenty of force in delivering his message. Our people were delighted with him. Look for announcement of date and further details in due course."

The services at the out of town points will, as in previous years, be continued as long as the roads are open for car travel, and it is hoped that this period will extend for at least a month or two yet.

Services next Sunday: Passchendaele 11 a.m.; Roseberry 3 p.m.; Irma at 7:30 p.m.

SPORT PEEPS

The Underwood trophy, emblematic of International supremacy in basketball, sticks to the Commercial Grade like gumbo to some of our duck hunters. One group of girls after another make the long trek to Edmonton, from far off cities in the States, only to return home without that big silver mug. No other sport has ever provided such an outstanding group of athletes, who have for so long remained top-notchers. These female super-athletes are selected from very small group of Edmonton girls and thus appear to be a fair example of Canadian girlhood.

It is not so many years ago that much opposition confronted the girl who trained faithfully for superior physical fitness. Writers delighted in pointing to the "angular flat-chested amazon," suggesting that inferior sport unfitted girls for wifehood. Surely the girls have proven such claims to be without foundation. They will compare favorably for looks with any average group of girls, moving with a pleasing grace wherever they may be.

Gerald Whitley gives us this "A-lphabetic" description of the Grads: Alberta brilliant champions, describes Edmonton's famous Grads; Having incomparable judgment; keeping leashed many notable opponents; Page's quintets, really scintillating, talented, unaffected, victorious women, exhibiting youthful zeal.

Hockey, the Canadian winter game, has taken on in England. This season will see scores of Canadian boys over in the old country, demonstrating their skill on the steel blades, and in stick-handling. New rinks are being built in several key cities, with a schedule of games, to entertain the crowds who want to view this exciting game. There appears to be ample rewards for the boy who can show real class in this game.

SILVER LANE NEWS

Misses Norma and Royle Bronson spent this past weekend with their cousins Marguerite and Leona Miller in the Melbrea district.

Mr. Finlay of Hardisty was a visitor in the schools and some homes south of town on Tuesday.

A large crowd attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Roy Reber at her home in Lewisville on Saturday.

A crowd from Silver Lane and nearby districts attended the chicken supper and play held in Melbrea school last Friday.

Mrs. Reeves of Fullview has been confined to her bed for the past three weeks.

The T. J. Bronson family were visitors at the J. Jackson home near Irma on Sunday.

The box socials being held in Lewisville and Silver Lane districts in the near future are to raise funds for Christmas concerts.

A.Y.P.A. Meeting

The first regular meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association was held on October 21st at the home of Mr. James Carter. The officers elected previously are: M. Thurston President; Mrs. Irene Carter Vice-President; P. Thurstorn, Secretary; J. Carter, Treasurer. Considerable business was discussed and committees appointed to draw up a four-fold program for the season.

The next meeting will be held on November 4th, at 8:30 p.m., in St. Mary's Hall. This will probably take the form of a lantern lecture on some religious topics to be announced later. The lecture will be open to the public and a silver collection to defray expenses will be taken.

MARRIAGES

FUDER—JAMES

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. James of the Coal Springs district was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Monday, October 28th, at 4 p.m., when Miss Jennie Alberta James, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. James, was united in marriage to Mr. Harold Edgar Fuder, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Fuder, all of Coal Springs. Rev. Ivar Saugen performed the ceremony.

The bride was dressed in white lace and carried a bouquet of roses.

The living room in which they were married was decorated with pink and white streamers and white bells.

The immediate families of the bride and groom attended the ceremony, after which Rev. Saugen baptised the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Ober Lovig. Mrs. Lovig is a sister of the groom. They were then joined by the rest of the relatives, making a gathering of thirty-seven. All took part in a bounteous wedding supper. The table was centered with a beautiful four-tiered wedding cake, decorated by Mrs. Fred Knudsen.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many pretty and useful gifts.

The rest of the evening was spent in singing hymns, and Rev. Saugen gave very inspiring talk based on love, taken from I Cor. Chap. 13.

The happy couple after spending a few days with the bride's parents, will reside at the home of the groom's parents.

The wedding day was also the anniversary of two birthdays, the groom's grandfather and aunt, Mr. H. Knudsen and Mrs. Albert Knudsen.

CALF AND STEER FEEDING METHODS

At this time of year thousands of calves and steers are going into feed lots in Central Alberta. The profit to be made from these steers will depend, not only on the price of beef and the cost of feed, but also, to a great extent, on the methods of feeding and management.

The following feeding practices are recommended by the Dominions Experimental Station, Lacombe.

A mixture of barley and oats is the best Alberta grown meal ration for fattening stock. When cattle are first put into the feed lot they may be fed equal parts of ground oats and barley. After the first month or so, depending on their condition, this may be changed gradually to two parts barley and one of oats.

If barley is not available, low grade wheat, although not so good for finishing, may be used instead. If wheat is used it should be coarsely ground and mixed with oat chaff in the proportions recommended for barley.

At the start, only two to three pounds of grain per head daily should be fed, and the amount increased at the rate of one pound per head per week until the cattle are on full feed, about the beginning of the third month. Calves on full feed will consume up to eight pounds, yearlings ten pounds, and two year olds fifteen pounds or more of grain per head daily.

When legume hay, greenfeed or prairie hay is being fed it is well to allow all the cattle will eat without wasting too much. Two year old steers will consume from fifteen to twenty pounds daily. When the animals are not making sufficiently rapid gains a roughage ration should be reduced, so that will eat more chop.

As variety in the ration is extremely important, the greater the choice of feed the greater is the chance of success. In order to keep down the feed cost, home-grown feeds should be used to as great an extent as possible. If the feeder has alfalfa or sweet clover hay he will not need to provide for much additional protein in the ration. When no legume hay is available, however, the feeding of limed oil meal will usually result in considerably increased gains, especially with calves. One-quarter pound of this feed should be allowed each animal to start with, gradually increasing until the full amount of one half pound daily is being mixed in the grain.

Good water should be supplied at least once daily; if there is a constant supply before the cattle, all the better. In cold weather a tank heater should be used to take the chill of the water; this simple precaution will save a great deal of feed in a cold winter. However, do not heat the water too much; over-heated water will frequently cause feeders to scour badly.

Salt should be before the animals at all times.

Why do you call your new girl

Appendix?" asked one Kinsella fellow of another at the North hall dance. "Because everybody has had her out," was the reply.

Recreation A Vital Necessity

Ever since some authority discovered and told the world that every man should have a hobby, the dictum has been reiterated at intervals by other authorities with varying degrees of emphasis and sometimes by those who are interested in promoting some form of amusement or recreation.

Whether uttered, however, with or without an ulterior motive the assertion is one which has a sound foundation in psychology and human experience. It is first cousin and as well founded as that more popularly known saying: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

While a hobby or recreation is a valuable adjunct to work for man at all periods of his march from the cradle to the grave, in at least two stages of his progress, in youth and in old age, it is an absolute essential if he is to achieve the goal of life—happiness.

The word recreation itself gives a clue to the reason. Re-creation, the making over again of the individual as he seeks relaxation from the "trivial round and common task" means what it indicates.

Unless a man is content to be a dull clod, he must refresh and re-create himself by seeking relaxation in some pursuit which, for the time, will lift him above the cares and worries incidental to earning his daily bread and providing for the needs of those dependent upon him. He needs some interest, which will infuse rest into aching limbs or brush away the cobwebs from the brain.

In youth this diverse-interest may take the form of athletics, mechanical activity and with a minority, some more sedentary type of relaxation, but no matter what form it may take, it is essential to the development of a sound, robust citizenship, that youth should allow time for recreation.

The lad or young man without a hobby is apt to become morbid and unhealthily introspective. Youth is normally a period of superabundant energy and this overflowing vivacity should be allowed to express itself in forms of healthy recreation, and if it can be used as a step ladder to a life vocation, it is that much more to the good.

Many a youth has "found" himself in the pursuit of a hobby. History is full of stories of boys and young men who have made good in later life because they have been allowed to follow their bent and of many more who have done so despite overwhelming obstacles and discouragements. By all means encourage the young man to take up some interest, apart from his daily work and chores.

And if a hobby is essential to youth it is vital to old age. There is no more pitiful sight than the old man whose physical powers have waned and who has no interest in life or in living. Such a man is a burden to himself and an incubus to his associates. He is misery personified and makes miserable those with whom he comes in daily contact.

But the old man who has built up an interest secondary to the life work which he pursued in his prime is spared these pains and penalties of advancing years. As he becomes physically enfeebled he is able to turn his hand and his mind to a pursuit which daily grows in fascination, because it can be taken for granted, that the hobby which he has developed is something which he likes and in which, therefore, he can excel. Such a pursuit will go far towards prolonging life itself and will certainly give zest to the declining years. Gloom will give way to sunshine and contentment will dispel moroseness.

But it is too late for the aged to develop a hobby after they have reached the sere and yellow. The old adage, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks" is applicable to humanity. There may be exceptions but that is the rule. That is one of the reasons why, even during the crowded years of prime and middle life, a recreation is not only advisable but essential. It is an insurance policy for a contented and interesting old age.

Moreover the man who diversifies his interests beyond his life's vocation, even during the period when life is at the full, is more likely to have an old age in which to further develop his hobby. It need not necessarily be something apart from his daily work. It may well be something related to it, in which event its pursuit will yield additional interest and perhaps more tangible dividends in the task of making a living.

First Bicycle In Bavaria

Built In 1864 It Is Made Entirely Of Wood

Bavaria's first bicycle, built by the famous German sports instructor, Johann Friedrich Trefz, has been acquired by the Deutsches Museum at Munich. The bicycle is made entirely of wood, and was designed and built by Trefz in 1864. Peasants, when they first saw him pedalling the wooden machine along the road around Munich, shouted "witch-doctor!" and often threw stones and crossed themselves. Trefz only managed to overcome Bavarian prejudice after he had built an indoor bicycling hall in Stuttgart to "introduce Germans to the bicycle."

Still In The Lead

No Book So Widely Read As The Bible

The Bible of the present generation is the outcome of centuries of research and patient effort. It contains 66 books in one, covering history, psalms, prophecy, romance, law, liturgy, biography, and letters delivered as correspondence. Men like King George read a part of it every day for guidance and encouragement in their tasks; Sun Yat Sen, Chinese follower of Confucius, Mahatma Gandhi the Hindu, and Kawaga of Japan, pore over it and were moved to their destinies by its teaching. It is read in palaces and in mud huts. Each year the Bible societies of the world send out 25,000,000 copies in hundreds of languages. In spite of supposed religious indifference it is the most read book in the world.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People

Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot and get headaches, dizzy spells, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Now, here's how to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Mounted Section Necessary

Separate Division Of R.C.M.P. Is Being Considered

The old order changeth. The Mounted Police are considering forming a mounted section in the force, according to the annual report released at Regina headquarters.

If present plans are advanced to completion, the report states, "the subjects of equitation, mounted drill and stable management will be undertaken by those assigned to the mounted section, only."

The report states difficulty is experienced in completing the training of some recruits within the prescribed period of six months when intensive training in equitation is included in the syllabus.

So some recruits may be assigned to mounted duty only, while others will take instruction in more modern and rapid means of travel.

Despite reports that the force was slowly but surely doing away with horses, Major-General Sir James H. MacBrien, commissioner, states in the report that "there is no intention whatever of dispensing altogether with the mounted man. A well-trained mounted unit of sufficient number is invaluable to any force which may have to deal with unruly crowds."

At the present time, the report states, the force throughout the Dominion has 258 saddle horses and 19 team horses, and of these, 88 saddle horses and 13 team horses are located in Saskatchewan.

Other means of land transport owned by the Mounted Police are 411 passenger cars; 34 motorcycles; 19 motor trucks; three railway gas cars and 413 sleigh dogs.

Of that number, there are 96 motor cars, four motor truck and 28 dogs stationed in Saskatchewan.

The force also operates 11 cruisers and eight patrol boats in preventive services on the eastern and western coasts.

Might Spoil Their Appearance

Army Troopers Prefer Jail To Having Hair Cut

Troopers of the Czechoslovakian army went on strike recently to escape the great peril of having their hair cut. About 40 of the men stationed at Olomouc flatly refused to obey their commanding officer when he ordered them to report to the barbers for a trimming. They clung to their determination not to have their hair cut and were sent to cells. Their reason, they said, was that they were about to be discharged from the army and would have to look for work. Everyone knows that a smart appearance counts for a lot in getting a job, they pleaded, but who can look really smart with one's hair cut like a convict's?

Experiment A Success

British Eggs Despatched By Air Hatched In Australia

An experiment in sending British eggs by air mail to Australia, to be hatched by Australian hens, has proved a great success, as two sturdy Rhode Island chicks hitherto unknown in Australia prove. Mr. F. P. Finney, assistant secretary of the Poultry Club of New South Wales, received two settings of Rhode Island Red eggs by air mail. They were despatched fifteen days earlier by Lord Greenway from his farm at Stanbridge Earls, Romsey (Hampshire). The two chicks hatched out 23 days after receipt.

Idea For Poultrymen

Chickens May Be Tattooed With Brand Of Owner

Chickens, tattooed on the wing, may soon become the present-day counterparts of the flank-branded cattle and horses of the old west, and for the same reason—to foil thieves. A system of identification, endorsed by the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Association is based on needle-punctures made in the skin-wells of chickens' wings and then filled with indelible ink. Each poultry-raiser has his own "brand," which is registered, and entered in identification books distributed to law-enforcement agencies.

Tokio Claims To Know Number Of Flies Swat

In Tokio they have a way of counting the flies they swat. You have the word of Norimi Iguchi, health prevention chief, that exactly 106,124,516 flies were swatted in Tokio in two days. He does not say who counts them or how, but he explains that the slain flies were packed in 175 large sacks. The champion fly-killer was a fish merchant, who felled 93,000 with deadly accuracy.

Negotiations for the laying of a telephone cable to cost $3,500,000 are to be opened shortly between Denmark and the British General Post Office.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, who goes beyond the choice of her cousin Columbine's strict moral code. Suddenly, in the market crowd, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture, Nancy receives from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration, Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. He ascends the hill, looks around, and then goes on to Cousin Columbine's. There, Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Jack Nelson has been killed in that same accident. Nancy's heart breaks. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is homesick, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a library comes to her. This seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boy was soon on the shelves to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adam, and Nancy go to the prairie home of Matthew's parents. The same day after Nancy and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its back window broken in a snowball gun. Their car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help. The next morning Jack sets out to help in the blizzard, accompanied by his mother, and the party of children and Nancy are rescued. As a result of the exposure Nancy's feet are badly frozen and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XXI.

The days that followed etched new lines in Columbine Nelson's face, for only a few hours after her second telegram to Massachusetts Jack took an unexpected turn for the worse.

"Shall I send for his people?" she questioned, when after a time he seemed endealess a grave-eyed doctor emerged from the boy's room.

"I should wait," he answered. "If Jack were my own son, Miss Nelson, and I so far away, I should say the same. You see, if the end comes, it will be soon; and since his parents could not reach here in time to see him, isn't it kinder, and wiser too, not to harrow them with the knowledge of how dark the prospects look just now? If he lives through the night the boy will probably recover."

To Help You
AVOID MANY COLDS

At the first nasal irritation or sniffle, apply Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in time, it helps prevent many colds entirely.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

He's putting up a magnificent fight; and every nurse and doctor in the place is fighting with him—in spirit, anyway. I don't say that his condition isn't desperate; but, somehow I've got the conviction that he'll make the grade."

Miss Columbine did not leave the hospital that night; nor did she close her eyes till early morning when a nurse appeared to say that Jack seemed to have turned the corner and his physician felt the worst was over. Not until then did the old lady cry a little, and the doctor ordered a powder that brought sleep. It was almost noon when she heard a rap upon her door, and Matthew Adams entered the room.

"Did I wake you, Miss Columbine?"

"No; I was only snoozing. How's everything now, Matt?"

The young man sat down on the bed and grimed at her.

"Jack's sleeping—naturally. Nancy isn't suffering this morning; and it looks as if the kids were coming through without a single amputation. That Osgood boy's been telling me what happened. I tell you, Miss Columbine, I take off my hat to Jack and Nancy—and to some of those brave youngsters too."

"I guess the papers didn't exaggerate this time," she observed.

"You're right. But just the same, I miss your guess if it's not some shock to those young relatives of yours when they read the story! How do you suppose it feels, Miss Columbine, to have the country regard you as heroic?"

"Well, it won't hurt either of 'em," responded the old lady. "They've got the Nelson common sense. It's I who's likely to be puffed up, Matthew. Think of the courage it must have taken for a boy to start out in the teeth of such a storm, especially when the driver had disappeared. And Nancy! A girl brought up as she's been—everything soft and easy so far—to do what she did—Well, all I can say is that my pioneer mother would have been proud of her!"

Matt noted with pleasure that Miss Columbine spoke with her accustomed frankness.

"You must go home to-day, Matthew," she said later. "It's been a comfort knowing you were here; but your father needs you, and I'll not be haled any longer."

The young man smiled.

"I've had orders per telephone, to stay on duty a day longer. Mark's on his way in from Prairie Ranch right now. Mother's coming down in the truck to take him home and, incidentally, pick out a new car."

That's one good thing came out of this blizzard, Miss Columbine, we're practically forced to buy a decent automobile. The old one's done for; and even Dad can't rouse up an excuse to put us off. The Adam clan is thrilled at the prospect. We're to have a family reunion at the Ford agency this afternoon."

Miss Columbine laughed and said: "Your mother deserves a modern car if anybody does. Is Mark all right again?"

"He'd come whether he was or not. They'd have had to take turns sitting on him to prevent his getting out of bed! All that kept Mark from joining that rescue party. Miss Columbine, was the fact that Aunt Em hid his clothes, and locked the closet where Uncle Tom keeps his. I must run now and get a bite before I meet the family."

After this things went more smoothly, and the messages to Edgecombe contained only the best of news. Thus there came a day some two weeks later when Nancy found herself in the big black walnut bed again, with General Grant looking down disapprovingly, she thought, on her Chinese coat; and Mark Adam looking quite the opposite, as he stood in the doorway.

"Perusing your fan mail?" he questioned soberly.

Nancy laughed. Her bed was strewn with newspapers and letters, not to mention various telegrams from her admirers. She laid down a cable from Aunt Judy and the Spear twins as she said:

"Come on in and be seated. No, not on the bed, Mark! My feet don't seem to belong to me yet, and I've got the feeling that if anybody sits on 'em they'll break off! Where's Matt? I want him to read some of these foolish letters. Can—can you beat that?"

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation, don't know all about the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain remedies were devised against the pain as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings were entirely wrong.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take as often as he likes.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Demand and Get

"ASPIRIN"

She torched him a missive; but before Mark had time to look at it, Aurora Tubbs puffed up the stairs.

"What'll you have for dinner, Nancy?" There's a steak, and creamed potatoes, and some hothouse tomatoes that come by express this mornin' from a sincere admirer in Fort Collins, whoever he is. Would like apple pie, or a good baked custard?" Miss Columbine says to order anything you want. My stars! Your body's a perfect sight. I hope this praise you're gettin' won't turn your head."

Nancy smiled and replied: "I'll choose the pie, Aurora. And could we open a can of your wonderful string beans?"

"Sure we could. Why don't you ask right out to stay to dinner, Mark Adam? You might as well as to sit there lookin' hungry."

Mark shook his head, endeavoring to appear grieved.

"You wrong me, Aurora. I'm headed for Colorado Springs soon as my elder brother arrives from home in the new car. We're to swap vehicles; and I dare say Matt would appreciate that grudging invitation, though if you ask me, he's already enjoyed more of his share of our nation's heroine."

"I think he's gettin' awful sweet on her," observed the woman, so soberly that Nancy suppressed a smile.

"So'm I," said Mark, and grinned at Nancy.

Aurora moved forward, her brow furrowed with worry.

"I hope to goodness it won't make no trouble in the family, Mark Adam. Would break your mother's heart if anything was to come between you boys. What are you laughin' about now, Nancy Nelson? It's no laughin' matter for two brothers to get sweet on the same girl. There was the Elton brothers up to Cripple Creek. They both fell in love with Sarah Peters and—Yes, Miss Columbine" (as a warning sounded from below), "I know you told me not to talk Nancy to death. I'm comin' now."

"And she leaves us," Mark said tragically as Aurora fled, "in complete ignorance as Eltons! I'll look on Jack this afternoon, Nancy. Want me to take him some of this accumulation?"

"I do if you won't forget to bring them back. I'm saving every one of these absurdities to show my grandchildren. Jack's seen the papers, I suppose."

Mark nodded.

"He says he feels like Lindbergh!

The last of those kids goes home today, Nancy. It's wonderful how well they all came through."

"I wish it was! I was so awfully afraid for some of them. It makes me shudder just to remember how they suffered. Is that Matt honking so cheerfully below the window? Hand me that compact on the bureau, Mark. I expect I look a sight."

The young man threw her a respectful glance as he obeyed.

"I note the fact that you used no powder or lipstick in my account, Miss Arnold. Say! Aunt Em sent in a big donation for the library. I left the books with Mary Taylor, but she suggested you might like to look 'em over here."

"I would. I can hardly wait to get back to the library. Juanita says—" "All ready, feller," called Matthew from below.

Mark went to the stairway and looked down.

"Why don't you join us, brother? Nancy's been beautifying herself just for your benefit. She looks like the Queen of Sheba or Greta Garbo, or some one."

Matthew obeyed, saying as he paused on the threshold: "I was only thinking that two callers might upset the invalid. How you feeling Nance?"

"Great! And don't call me an invalid! There's nothing the matter except that my feet feel sort of—well, sort of brittle!"

"Mark Adam," called Miss Columbine, "you come right down. You've been there half an hour. It's Matt's turn now."

"Coming," called Mark; and then to Nancy: "I'll drop in later and let you know if your brother's hat still fits his head, my dear. So long."

As Mark departed, Matt drew a chair nearer the bed.

"You appear to be submerged in letters, telegrams and the daily press," he told her, smiling. "How does it make you feel, Nance?"

Her eyes lighted with something near amusement.

"It may sound ungrateful, but most of this business makes me want to laugh. It's awfully nice for everyone to say such things about us; but I know, and you know too, Matt, that anybody else would have done exactly what Jack and I did. It just happened to be us—that's all."

"I'm not so sure," said Matthew gravely. "I—think you're wonderful, Nancy."

Seven Sons In One Family Serve On Police Force

A family of seven sons, and all in the police force, is the record set up by Mr. and Mrs. M. Duncan of Postroy, Scotland. Duncan senior, also served as a policeman for a number of years, but left the force, and took up farming. After leaving school in turn the seven sons tried to farm. Six of them are six feet and over in height, while the youngest, who is only 18, is five feet 11 inches.

Bicycle With Wings

Short Flight Has Been Achieved By German Inventor

From Germany comes the news of the first flight ever achieved by man-power alone. Since time immemorial men have been trying to conquer the air in various contraptions propelled by human muscles and the spectators at Frankford-on-Main saw a sort of winged bicycle actually leave the ground in a flight of several hundred yards.

So what? Does this passage a time when we shall leap on our aerial bicycles and sail through space? The inventor says so, but we are inclined to doubt him. Terrestrial bicycles, if you recall, became somewhat less popular with the development of the gasoline engine. It would be great sport to go pedalling through the air, but when one can sit comfortably at the controls and let an engine do the work—well, somehow aerial bicycling seems less attractive. If it came to a choice between flying flivvers and flying bicycles, we have a pretty good hunch which the public would choose.

A Musical Instrument

You may take the word of F. W. Field, His Majesty's senior trade commissioner in Canada and Newfoundland, bagpipes are musical instruments, and Mr. Field is a Scotsman. In his annual report on Canadian conditions, Mr. Field lists bagpipes under the general heading "musical instruments." Oddly most of the bagpipes imported by Canada come from the United States.

A legal decision in Ontario, Canada, permits children of the province to go to school in their bare feet.

Huge Bombers Submitted To United States Army For Approval

A new Vulture observation bomber, described by experienced aviation men as "the most powerful air weapon ever devised," had completed secret factory tests and will be submitted to the United States army for approval.

Perhaps the most striking development of the 850-horsepower bomber, which can fly at 250 miles an hour fully loaded, is its canopy of shatter-proof glass, which permits unobstructed vision and preserves low air resistance.

The bomber is equipped with one traversible and four fixed machine guns. Alternate armament can be one 1,100-pound bomb, or 24 bombs of 100 pounds each.

The big ship also can carry pressure tanks for poison gas to be discharged over trenches at 250 miles an hour.

In Japan, a girl must have at least 60 dresses a year to be considered a first-class geisha.

Ben McGuire took first prize in the pole vault, clearing the bar at 8 ft. 4 ins.; while Gordon Blakley got third prize in both the half and quarter mile run. The relay team consisting of W. and P. Inkin, G. Blakley and Robert Carter and Clarence Carter in the hop, step and jump, did not quite make third place. The majority of prizes were captured by Provost students.
